Hancock gang activity growing

Investigators: 'Latin Kings,' 'Vice Lords' recruiting 'latch-key' kids in our area

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

While the idea of youth gangs usually calls to mind an urban setting, Hancock County has lately shown increasing signs of gang activity.

Deputy Harold Hirsch of the Hancock County Sheriff's serves as a school resource officer during the school year. While he works the streets during the summer, he said he still tries to keep up with possible gang activity.

Hirsch said he has been with the Sheriff's department for 10 years, and has worked with the school system for six. He said that the schools have no leniency toward gang activity.

"The Hancock County School System doesn't tolerate it," Hirsch said. "They see it, and deal with it immediately. As far as the

Both sides ready for 'naked truth' in strip club hearing

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

The immediate fate of a strip club proposed to be built on Hwy. 90 will be decided at a public hearing held by the Hancock County Planning and Zoning Board this afternoon. Developers must obtain a special exception permit for the club to go forward.

The meeting will be called to order at 4:15 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Dr., with other orders of business discussed before the hearing begins.

The hearing is officially scheduled for 4:50 p.m., but you may want to arrive earlier as a large turnout is expected.

The permit office has been averaging 25 calls a day inquiring about the proposal.

The proposal - along with another for a separate gentlemen's club on Hwy. 603 received at the building permits office over the past couple of weeks - has stirred controversy among religious groups and other concerned citizens, and proponents favoring the proposals. Everyone will get a chance to have their say this afternoon, building officials say.

Kirk Ladner, spokesperson for Magnolia 1, owners of the club proposed for Hwy. 90, and the subject of this afternoon's public hearing, has said that the club will be an upscale alternative to entertainment for visitors and locals.

Those against the proposal say that this type of entertainment has no place in the small town atmosphere of Hancock County.

Geoff and Moli Kergosien on Captain America. Geoff proposed to Moli on the boat almost 15 years ago.

Couple floats down memory lane for the 4th on boat on which he proposed

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Geo and Moli Kergosien hope to spend the Fourth of July holiday enjoying their newly renovated boat, Captain America. The boat recently made its way back into the couple's life and holds special significance for the Kergosiens. Geoff proposed to Moli on the boat almost 15 years ago.

The couple got together in 1987 and decided to buy a boat together.

In 1990 on a cruise down the Jourdan River, Geoff proposed to Moli under the Magnolia trees at McLeod Park. They were married later that year.

Married life brought added responsibility and then a family and the couple decided to sell the boat to Geoff's little brother Pat and best man Ben Benvenutti. Ben and Pat parked the boat in Ben's yard and that is where it sat for years, filling with leaves and falling into a state of disrepair.

"I kept looking at the boat," said Geoff. "I felt a kind of emotional attachment to it so one day I just went over with a trailer and picked it up."

A few days later, Geoff called Ben and told him he had the boat and was thinking about restoring it. His enthusiasm inspired brother Pat to help and the two got to work. The result was the red, white and blue, Captain America, the defender of truth, justice and the American way, Geoff said.

DMR beefing up marine patrols for holiday weekend boat traffic

THE SEA COAST ECHO

During the busy Fourth of July holiday weekend, Mississippi's State Marine Patrol officers will be out in full force protecting the lives of Mississippi's boaters.

The Department of Marine Resources, through its reserve unit, increases patrols on Mississippi's marine waters during times of high-volume boating traffic, like the busy Fourth of July weekend.

State Marine Patrol has assigned 16 officers, which includes eight Marine Patrol officers and eight reserve officers, and eight enforcement boats to patrol the coastal and marine waters south of Interstate 10 from July 2 through July 5, stepping up enforcement of no wake zones, and checking boaters for lifejackets and other required safety equipment to ensure a safe holiday for everyone enjoying recreational boating along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Mississippi's no wake zone law states that "within 100 feet of any public boat launching ramp facility and within 100 feet adjacent to any small craft harbor, commerce harbor, public marina, or any other place where vessels are berthed are designated no wake zones."

"Boaters should be aware that the boater is responsible for his wake," said State Marine Patrol Chief of Enforcement George Wright.

"And he can be held liable by law for any damage caused by his wake."

Boat ramps in the three Coastal counties will be closely monitored by law enforcement officers.

Last year, the DMR installed no wake zone signs at 75 public boat launch facilities in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. This year, the DMR is developing a plan to place no wake zone buoys in high-traffic areas in the waterways of Mississippi's three coastal counties.

Marine Patrol will bring its night crews on two hours earlier than normal so that there will be an overlap of officers from two different shifts patrolling the waters from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., increasing the amount of law enforcement on the waters during that time period.

There will be eight

Marine Patrol vessels out on the marine waters enforcing boating safety throughout the holiday weekend.

"During daylight and just before dusk all our efforts will focus on boat and water safety enforcement," Chief of Enforcement Wright said.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes.

Don't forget to dispose of flag correctly

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Did you buy a new American flag for the Fourth of July holiday? Do you have a torn, faded flag you need to retire? Do you know the proper procedure for disposal of old American flags?

Section 8k of the Flag Code states, "The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning."

American Legion Post #77 of Waveland and the Hancock County Library System are joining together to provide Hancock County citizens the opportunity to dispose of their American flags.

Persons needing to retire old American flags can now place them in a plastic bag and drop them in any of the library system's four book returns - the Bay St. Louis Hancock County Library, the Kiln Public Library, the Pearl River Public Library or the Waveland Public Library. Flags may also be brought into any of the library system's four branches and given to the Customer Service Assistants.

More information on the project is available by calling the centralized headquarters of the Hancock County Library System at 467-5282.

Stennis International Airport projects to attract new military to area

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
 HANCOCK COUNTY Port and Harbor Director Hal Walters told Commissioners on Monday that multi-million dollar projects slated for Stennis International Airport were necessary to attract the types of businesses that they hope to see locate at the airport.

Walters said his vision for the future of the airport includes attracting and recruiting national and international heavy lift cargo businesses, repair and overhaul of military and commercial aircraft and increased fuel sales.

The discussion was triggered when Commissioner Anthony Sahuque questioned the thinking behind the extensive projects at the airport. Sahuque questioned whether the projects had actually increased business activity on the runway.

Walters said that to go forward, the airport has to be equipped to handle increased activity before new business arrives.

This week, a meeting with engineers will kick off the planning stages for a $2.1 million dollar air traffic control tower.

The building will be 80 feet tall and located on the east side of the runway just south of the T-hangers. Funds for the tower are provided by the Federal Aviation Administration's Facilities and Engineering Division, said airport manager Bill O'Brien. The project will be completed by April of 2006, he said.

On Monday, commissioners approved a $312,400 professional services agreement with Airport Development Group Inc. for basic engineering and construction supervision services for a taxiway expansion project.

The $4.1 million project will widen and strengthen taxiway A.

The 8,500-foot taxiway, now between 50 and 60 feet wide, will be widened to 75 feet and strengthened to be better able to handle heavy aircraft, said Cotter.

Funding for the project will be 90 percent FAA funds, two and a half percent state Mississippi Department of Transportation funds, and two and a half percent Port and Harbor Funds, Cotter said.

Recent projects at the airport include an instrument landing system, blast pad, and apron expansions.

In other business, Phillips Aviation sent notice to the board that they will be relocating. Phillips asked to continue their lease on a month to month basis until the move. Phillips Aviation has been located at Stennis for about 16 years. When contacted, owner Gene Phillips said he hoped to be able to comment on the new location within the next couple of weeks.

With the opening of a one year lease agreement with a major military technology building at the entrance to the airport is now filled. MMT will have the option of renewing the lease for two additional terms.

Commissioners approved the sale of 2 acres of land and a building at Stennis business park for $143,107.79 to Kevin Pokallus of Hot Sticks. The company had a lease purchase agreement that came to maturity recently allowing the sale to be completed. Pokallus also purchased 36 acre adjoining the business for $32,629.63. The company manufactures drumsticks.

An intermodal improvement grant from the Mississippi Department of Transportation will help fund two projects at Port Bienville.

A $748,000 project will completely replace one mile of Port Bienville Road from the sub-base up to the asphalt and overlay another mile and a half of the road, said deputy director Greg Deakle.

The project will also slightly straighten two curves.

Commissioners approved $73,200 for engineering and construction supervision services for another project which will add a turn lane leading to Linea Peninsula and modify the entrance to the industrial park.

Commissioners questioned the purchase of land at Port Bienville that was sold to Southwest Engineering, now located in Slidell. Project manager Jerry Hemphill said it was, and still is, his understanding that the company is planning to build a 40,000 sq. ft. building on the property and relocate the business to the port. The company blends chemicals to produce products for use as additives to auto paints, large cooling systems and more, Hemphill said.

Rumors that Memphis International may be leaving the runway at Stennis when their lease is up in December could be true. The company upgrades avionics systems in C-130's. Hemphill said that the Commission understands that the company may be leaving when the lease expires. "However, they, and we hope they will secure additional contracts that will allow them to stay", said Hemphill.

N.O. trio busted in Waveland for alleged credit card fraud

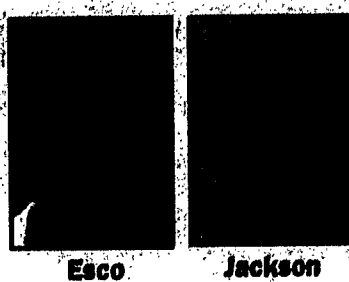

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
 Waveland police apprehended three Louisiana residents for alleged credit card fraud Monday evening, according to Police Chief Jimmy Varnell.

"We received a call at 5:08 p.m. from Wal-Mart in reference to a possible credit card fraud. A description was given of a vehicle involved and Officer Theresa Beeson observed a matching vehicle and stopped it on U.S. 90 near the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road," Varnell's report said.

"A Wal-Mart Loss Prevention Officer arrived at scene, identified the three occupants of the vehicle as being the same that had used the credit cards in question at the store."

Varnell listed the arrested as:

- Davonell Rowman Esco, 27, 1917 Delchaise St., N.O., charged with two alleged counts of fraudulently

Esco Jackson obtaining goods.

- Sharell Jackson, 25, 4202 S Dorgenois St., N.O., charged with two alleged counts of fraudulently obtaining goods, and
- Nikki Alanna Clark, 32, 888 S. Clearview Parkway, River Ridge, charged allegedly with accessory after the fact.

All three were booked at the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility in Bay St. Louis. Bond set at $100,000 each and an initial appearance in Waveland Municipal Court on July 8, being set, according to Varnell's report.

Wal-Mart's loss prevention officer advised Officer Beeson that when questioned about their credit card, they had left both the credit card and a Louisiana identification card on the counter. The Wal-Mart officer stated that they had used the fraudulent cards to obtain gift cards, shopping cards and merchandise at the store, according to the report.

Varnell continued, "After receiving consent to search the vehicle, officers found several credit cards and assorted merchandise were located in the vehicle. Also located was an attaché case with a laptop computer and what appeared to be a device in the vehicle to alter credit cards."

Varnell said the investigation is continuing with investigator Howard Parker in charge.

He also said the U.S. Secret Service is working with Waveland Police on this case.

Shoreline woman faces drug charges

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
 A Shoreline Park resident faces four counts of the sale of a controlled substance, according to Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay Police Chief Frank McNeil.

In a news release the chiefs said, "Angela Westmoreland, 19, Second Street, Shoreline Park, was arrested Tuesday, and charged with two counts of the sale of ecstasy (MDMA), and two counts of sale of xanbars (alprazolam)."

The arrest was made by Agents of the Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force and Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics.

Agents reported that Ms. Westmoreland was selling the illegal narcotics from her residence and in her place of employment at a local fast food restaurant in Bay St. Louis, the chiefs reported.

Westmoreland was held under a $30,000 bond and Detective Ian Estorff is in charge of the investigation.

The Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force asks residents to report any drug activity to the task force at 487-5683.

Mississippi's NAACP

this page, however, did not be about cowardly racism finally brought to justice. The final chapter should be about redemption and moving on - moving on to a better life.

Editor Jim Prince of the Neshoba Democrat, co-chairman of the local biracial coalition, had editorially picked up on what William Raspberry, the Mississippi-born Washington Post columnist, had recently written, that "maybe Philadelphia is about to fashion a new legacy - for itself and America."

Certainly I shared that view. I shared it with James Young, the president of the Neshoba County Board of Supervisors (with a switch) and Leroy Olmstead, president of the county's NAACP, spoke of a new day here.

"I see the cloud moving away," said Young. "because we are admitting that we were wrong...the people were wrong, the justice system was wrong, the politicians were wrong."

Schwerner, Chaney and Goodman had been drawn to the Longdale community where they landed by car. They were met by a mob of about 100 people. They were taken to a house where they were held for several days. They were then taken to a church where they were killed. The church was then burned down.

The three had ventured into the county to check out the church burning. After being detained at a roadblock, they were taken to a house where they were held for several days. They were then taken to a church where they were killed. The church was then burned down.

Previous few local white citizens back then would speak out critically of what had happened and those who did were subjected to reprisals, among them the Rev. Clay F. Lee, then pastor of First Methodist Church, who, posthumously, was named a martyr.

Now, the current calls for justice in the case, in truth, when the FBI evidence was brought to Gov. Paul Johnson in 1984, he made the wise decision to go the federal route rather than turn it over to local authorities.

No legal prosecution would have been possible then: the District Attorney was a member of the state Sovereignty Commission and the Circuit Judge had been seen attending Klan meetings.

Barbour -- leave no PLAD public education plan to contact all 47,000 PLADs beneficiaries to assist them with their enrollment in the correct prescription plans. We will help them sign up for and receive not only the Medicare benefits but also the tremendous benefits available under the Patients Assistance Programs, which make more than 1350 prescription drug programs available for free or no more than $15 per month. Every PLADs beneficiary is eligible for these benefits, but we know many of them need help in getting enrolled and served. We will use this delay to make sure they get

it. Good News for At-Risk Beneficiaries:

We have had positive waiver negotiations with federal officials about allowing 18,000 at-risk beneficiaries to remain on Medicaid. Now, with extra transition time, we are even more confident the waivers will be granted when the reforms go into effect on September 15.

To signify our commitment to help, I have asked Director of Medicaid Dr. Warren Jones to provide the employees at Medicaid with plaid ribbons. I want our staff to wear these ribbons, not just to symbolize our commitment to help, but to identify us as the people who can help the affected PLADs beneficiaries sign up for all their benefits before September 15 so there will be no gaps in their coverage.

New state laws take effect today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some new Mississippi laws taking effect today, Thursday, July 1, 2004:

- State parks: Close Legion Park near Louisville, Casey Jones Museum and State Park near Vaughn, Florewood Plantation State Park near Greenwood, Nanih Wayia State Park near Noxapater and Sam Dale State Park north of Meridian. The five parks are being closed to save money.
- Musical heritage: Establish a commission to market Mississippi Blues sites to tourists.
- High-speed chases: Increase the penalties for people who flee law enforcement officers in a motor vehicle. Require all police agencies to adopt pursuit policies or training programs for officers.
- Personalized plates: Allow specialty car tags for several organizations or causes, including those to raise awareness of breast cancer, to promote Mississippi as "Home of the Blues" or to declare support for the state Department of Archives and History.

• Military honor: Create a Mississippi Medal of Valor, which will be given to families of National Guardsmen who die while on duty. The governor may also give the medal retroactively to active-duty military recipients of the Medal of Honor or the Purple Heart. The new medal becomes the second-highest of 10 awards for state National Guard service.

• Civil rights leader: Designate the Interstate 20-Mississippi 15 exit in Newton County as the Medgar Evers Memorial Interchange, for the Mississippi NAACP leader who was assassinated outside his home in June 1963.

• Silver screen: Give movie makers 10 percent tax credits and rebates for working in Mississippi. The incentives would be for everything from paying local actors to buying equipment.

• Drug courts: Fund state drug courts by adding $10 to the fines for felonies, traffic offenses, DUI, game and fish violations and littering. An $8 fine will be added to misdemeanor convictions. Officials at the Administrative Office of Courts say the fees could generate up to $5 million a year.

• Abortion: Allow health care providers to opt out of participating in abortions if they object to the procedure. Require that abortions must be performed in an outpatient clinic or a hospital rather than an abortion clinic, starting at 13 weeks' gestation; current law allows abortions at abortion clinics up to 16 weeks' gestation. Inmates offered day off of sentence each for day worked

BY EMILY WAGSTER PETTUS

Associated Press Writer
A new Mississippi law gives nonviolent inmates the chance to earn a day off their sentences for each day they work, up from the one day off they've gotten for every three days of labor.

Prisoners' rights attorney Ron Welch sees the new law as a carrot-and-stick approach to managing the prison population.

The carrot is the incentive for trustees to work their way to freedom more quickly. Welch said the stick, though not literal, is the punishment they'll receive for slacking off, probably by withdrawal of work privileges.

The new trusty work plan is one of several new Mississippi laws that take effect today, the first day of the new state fiscal year.

Other new laws cover a gamut of issues, from one requiring fireworks sellers to meet fire-code standards to another allowing Highway Patrol officers to keep their duty dogs when the dogs are retired from service.

There are several new abortion laws, including one that prohibits medical workers or others from allowing a baby to die if the baby survives an abortion. Legislators have not said how often that has happened but the bill passed with little debate, and Gov. Haley Barbour signed it and several other restrictions during a ceremony attended by anti-abortion activists.

Grabbing the most attention this year are laws designed to rein in state spending, including one that's set to knock 65,000 people off Medicaid and another that will close five state parks.

The new work program is off-limits to sex offenders, those convicted of trafficking in controlled substances; habitual offenders; those serving life sentences; or those who haven't served the mandatory time for conviction of robbery or attempted robbery through display of a deadly weapon, carjacking through display of a deadly weapon or a drive-by shooting. Welch said the new work law should help inmates improve themselves before they leave state custody.

Some other high-profile bills passed by legislators this year have different dates to become law.

One that became law when Barbour signed it in May allows prosecutors to pursue multiple charges against a drunk driver if more than one person is killed or injured in a single wreck.

During a special session that ran May 19-June 8, lawmakers passed a bill to limit how lawsuits can be filed and how much can be awarded. Barbour, who campaigned on the issue last year, signed the bill and it takes effect Sept. 1.

It is very likely that a small piece of property at Rocky Hill Dedeaux Rd. will eventually be turned over to Hancock County, said U.S. General Administration Realty Specialist Gabriel Head in Atlanta. The county wants to use the land for a communication tower system.

Last week, the Board of Supervisors received a letter telling them that the property had been determined as suitable for homeless use by the Department of Housing and Urban Services.

This is a standard and a part of the 49 Act and the McKinney Act process, said Head. About 95 to 99 percent of property is deemed suitable for homeless use, he said.

The property, which is presently federally owned, must go through the same screening process as all federally owned property before being turned over to another owner. Part of that process is the 60 day period for the HUD screenings, one of several that must be completed, before a decision on its fate is made, Head said.

The property originally fell into federal hands when it was used by the Corps of Engineers as a site for equipment for a communication system, said county board attorney Ronnie Artigues.

Correction

The article entitled "County School Board Approves $30.3 million budget," which ran in the June 27 issue, contained a factual error. While the projected budget for 2004-05 is $30.3 million, the school board will not vote to approve it until tonight at 5 p.m.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

In a first for the Gulf of Mexico region, scientists at The University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Coast Research Laboratory have reared blue crabs in captivity from eggs to baby crabs.

The successful production of the baby crabs is a step toward developing commercial aquaculture operations that can raise juvenile crabs in ponds for the soft-shell crab market, noted Harriet Perry, director of the Southern Miss Center for Fisheries Research and Development at the laboratory.

At 20 days old, the GCRL crabs entered a second larval stage, termed a "megalopa." About the size of a capital letter in newspaper print, they look more like little lobsters than crabs and are white, not blue.

"The next time they molt is when they finally begin to look like a crab," Perry said.

The GCRL project is part of a blue-crab consortium. Maryland consortium members successfully reared blue crabs from eggs to the second larval stage last year. While they are looking to rebuild a declining crab fishery in the Chesapeake Bay using hatchery-reared blue crabs, the GCRL team is interested in developing the technology for production of soft-shell crabs in ponds.

The soft-shell crab is harvested after the crab has molted and filled out its new shell but before that shell begins to harden.

"The soft crab is the money crab," Perry said. "Our crab fishery in the BABY FOOD - University of Southern Mississippi fisheries technician Dyan Gibson checks the abundance of microscopic marine creatures that will serve as food for a special group of crabs. In a first for the Gulf of Mexico region, Southern Miss researchers at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs have reared blue crabs in captivity from eggs to baby crabs, a stage just before the young animals molt and look like crabs.

Gulf of Mexico is in stable condition, but hard crabs may bring $6 a dozen while soft crabs can go for $16 to $36 a dozen. Crabbers sell all the soft-shell crabs they can catch to our regional markets. Developing blue crabs as a new species for aquaculture would open the possibility of exporting Gulf of Mexico soft crabs.

Perry pioneered recirculating "sea water" systems more than two decades ago to hold wild-caught crabs until the crabs shed and can be harvested as the higher-priced soft crab.

"Our interest in hatchery-produced individuals is to develop technologies for the efficient year-round production of pre-molt and soft-shell crabs," she said.

Perry's GCRL team has taken a first step toward establishing a steady supply of seed stock--the juvenile crabs that can be used to grow crabs to a marketable size--initially in the aquaculture experiments and, once the technology is in place, in commercial operations.

"Our goal is to get the megalopae to an early crab stage, something a little larger than a dime," she said. "Growing the crabs to that juvenile stage will be the biggest challenge because they are so cannibalistic."

She said another element of the project is to supply hatchery-reared juvenile crabs for research on parasite and disease studies. Drs. Robin Overstreet and Jeffrey Lotz, Southern Miss professors of coastal sciences at the GCRL, will be looking at a parasitic barnacle and a parasite that, while not harmful to humans, affects the crab's blood and the animal's survival.

The GCRL is part of the university's College of Science and Technology.

Stennis Space Center hosts small business contracts workshop

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Office of External Affairs at NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC) hosted a workshop June 22 to educate university and small business representatives about Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) and Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) contracts available through NASA and other government agencies.

The SBIR program was created to increase small business participation in research and development, encourage technological innovation in the U.S., meet federal research and development needs with the assistance of small businesses and to boost commercialization of innovations that originated from federal research and innovation.

The SBIR program encourages participation from socially disadvantaged businesses.

The STTR program awards contracts to small businesses to participate in cooperative research and development with nonprofit research institutions, such as universities.

Although the SBIR and STTR programs have many of the same objectives and requirements, the goal of the STTR program is to assist technology transfer from the research institution to a small business. University representatives attended the workshop to network with small businesses and determine how partnerships can be formed. NASA centers award SBIR and STTR contracts based on the technological abilities of that center. Most contracts awarded by SSC focus on propulsion testing and Earth science applications.

"The SBIR and STTR programs are a great way for NASA, small businesses and research institutions to form partnerships that are beneficial for all involved," said SBIR/STTR Program Manager Ray Bryant. "It is important for us to host these kinds of workshops to educate the public so they can take advantage of the opportunities these programs offer."

"We heard from attendees that several new relationships were initiated between university faculty and small-business personnel before the day was even over," said NASA SSC University Affairs Officer Dr. Ramona Travis. "That is exactly what we were hoping could occur - that this workshop would spur new partnerships with creative ideas to address our needs."

Workshop participants Sharon and Myron Katz of Building Science Innovators said they attended the workshop to learn about available awards, network with NASA and other small-business representatives and see if the objectives of their business fit with NASA objectives.

"The workshop was well organized," said Sharon Katz. "We received a good overview and lots of helpful information." The Building Science Innovators representatives said they now know how to better prepare proposals.

Local students invited to Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Community service volunteer hours in Mississippi will increase significantly after the annual Mississippi Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership (HOBY) seminar in Jackson.

The first weekend in June, 200 high school sophomores attended HOBY, a part of the nationwide leadership training program for high school students created by actor Hugh O'Brian. Its mission is to encourage high school sophomores to become active in volunteer activities designed to improve communities and the country.

At the same time, the seminar provides leadership development training for the students.

The Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Foundation was founded by the actor following a visit to Africa where he was inspired by a meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

"One of the things Schweitzer said to me," explained O'Brian, "was that the most important thing in education is to teach young people to think for themselves. From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believe in youth and the American dream, we created HOBY to identify, recognize, and develop leadership among our nation's youth."

At the conclusion of the weekend, each student committed 100 hours of volunteer service to communities across Mississippi in the coming months. The 200 students now understand the importance of volunteer participation in community services that impact lives of the families and individuals in their local areas.

"Can you imagine the impact these high school sophomores can have on their local communities and on our state through this outpouring of volunteer service?" said Mississippi HOBY chair Barbie Bassett of Madison.

"Through HOBY's Leadership for Service Program, HOBY participants are challenged to commit at least 100 hours of volunteer service in their home communities," Bassett said. "With 200 students participating in this year's seminar," she added, "we can expect these high school sophomores to contribute 20,000 hours of volunteer service to communities and community service organizations across Mississippi."

The program focuses on leadership, motivation, and volunteerism by exposing students to business, educational, and political leaders and by involving them, as part of their training, in service projects with such community organizations as the Good Samaritan, Stewpot, Gateway Rescue Mission, the Mississippi Food Network, and similar other community service and charitable organizations in the Jackson area.

and in Mississippi.

HOBY students also have the opportunity to interact with Mississippi leaders including former Bureau of Narcotics director Frank Melton, Mississippi State Attorney General Jim Hood, and Time Magazine's "Person of the Year" Cynthia Cooper.

Students are selected for participation in HOBY by their high schools with each public and private high school in Mississippi invited to select one outstanding student to take part in the program.

Area students who took part in this year's program and who will be volunteering for community service include Amanda Pucheu from Our Lady Academy, Brad Reinhart from St. Stanislaus, and Trey Swanson from Hancock High School.

In addition to the annual leadership seminars, HOBY graduates are eligible for over 85 college and university scholarships across the nation.

Funding for the leadership program is provided by businesses, foundations, civic clubs, and individuals throughout the state. HOBY financial sponsorship for this area was provided by the Lower Pearl River Valley Foundation.

Information about HOBY activities and sponsorship opportunities is available by contacting HOBY representatives at hobyquestions@yahoo.com.

RESTAURANT REVIEW

Presenting some of the Finest Restaurants on the Mississippi Gulf Coast

Attention Restaurant Owners...

Advertising is an investment in the success of your restaurant. Every restaurant has competition, either within the town, or nearby city. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and dine elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their dining habits from one restaurant to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your restaurant.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is new! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your restaurant. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know what specials you are offering, perhaps what entertainment you may have and the character of your restaurant.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 9am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

FIREWORKS

If you're planning on watching the fireworks at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis from your boat this Friday July 2, please be informed that the Bureau of Marine services is requiring all boaters to stay a minimum of 850 feet away from the fireworks barge for safety reasons.

National fire standards require the increase in space due to a much larger fireworks display this year. The show starts at 9 p.m. on the west side of the casino and will be choreographed to music.

The Bay St. Louis Police Department will also be on hand, directing traffic and parking all along the seawall. Boats will be turned away from the Cedar Ridge boat launch after 5:30 p.m. Friday.

The Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department will also be having its 15th annual fireworks display this Saturday, July 3, at 9 p.m. at the end of Lakeshore Road and Beach Blvd.

SHOOT YOUR OWN FIREWORKS

Da Beach House invites the entire community to enjoy the celebration of our freedom on the beach in front of its 604 South Beach location.

Families and fireworks will be plentiful. You can bring your food, fireworks and participate, or just bring a lawn chair and enjoy the splendor of the fireworks hosted by all of the other families.

However, Da Beach House has added a new activity to its 4th of July celebration in honor of all the families and visitors that utilize our beautiful beaches on a daily basis.

A "5th of July Please pick-up after the Party Beach Clean-up" has been added to this year's activities. Join the crowd from 7 a.m. to noon on Monday, h to clean the beach of all party debris, fireworks, food containers, etc. Bags will be provided and smoothies will be given to all who assist in making this a party to remember.

...Gibson said that gang membership was not confined to any specific ethnicity or race.

Usually, Gibson said, case workers can determine gang affiliation by the clothes and colors they are wearing. Sports jerseys, hats tucked on angles and even friendship beads can all be indicators. Clipped eyebrows usually indicate rank.

"Most of the time, they'll deny affiliation," Gibson said. Hirsch added that it was often easy to mistake clothing, or even a physical mark as an indicator of gang membership. A juvenile arrested for possession of marijuana, he said, had had a piece of his eyebrow missing since birth. This was confirmed later by childhood photos. But when the juvenile had first been arrested, case workers had thought the crime was gang related.

Often, Hirsch said, he would find notebooks with gang artwork in them.

...Hancock County ... about ...

...Hirsch said that these recruiters usually travelled east from New Orleans or south from Jackson, where gang activity is much more serious.

"The people usually involved are of a transient nature. They come in, they recruit, start a local chapter, and move on."

Many of the children who these recruiters look for crave the attention and fellowship that comes from being in a gang, Hirsch said. This is especially true for children whose home lives are lacking.

Hancock County has a lot of working parents. The recruiters know this. They know who the latchkey kids are.

God & Country Service Sunday

Central Bible Church in Bay St. Louis extends a special invitation to everyone to its annual God and Country Service Sunday, July 4, at 10:45 a.m. The Sanctuary Choir and Drama Cast will be presenting the patriotic musical, "America, We Must Not Forget," to honor local, state, and federal government and law enforcement personnel and the military.

The program will be followed by an Appreciation Luncheon in the Church Cafeteria. Admission is free and everyone is invited.

Central Bible Church is located at 2002 Hwy 90 in Bay St. Louis, directly across the highway from the Post Office. For more information and for reserved seating, call the church office at (228) 467-0529.

7th Annual Blast in the Bay July 10 at Depot

Rev your engines, polish your fenders and get to Depot early Saturday, May 10 for the 7th Annual Blast in the Bay to support the Firemen's Doll and Toy Fund. Classic, street rod and "don't fit in any category" cars and trucks are welcome to register for the top ten awards presented by the Firemen and the many sponsor awards for participants.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. with a $15 donation for each vehicle entered. Trailers are not allowed on the show site. Personal and car club friends of the firemen will be helping with registration and event activities, including the very popular Hot Dog Heaven.

Bay Saint Louis artist Janise McCordle of Clay Creations has adapted many of her local scene ceramic plaques to be presented in the top ten awards, including Peoples Choice, Mayor's Choice, and the Fire Chief's Choice. "We are so happy that Ms. McCordle wanted to participate and help us continue giving unique awards, different from those received at any other car show," said Chief Bobby Gavagnie. The city's firemen have sponsored the Fireman's Doll and Toy fund for more than 26 years, beginning under the direction of retired Chief Andrew Lizana. It has grown from its humble beginnings of repairing used toys for distribution to needy children of Bay Saint Louis to serve the needs of children from throughout Hancock County.

Annually the Fund averages helping more than 700 children, giving as donations allow, three gifts and stockings for each child. Every child receives a stuffed animal and other age appropriate gifts.

"Bay Saint Louis is a generous community and we appreciate the hundreds of people who help us during the year reach our goals for the children. The Blast in the Bay is our single largest fundraiser, so we really need the support of car owners and viewers. Anyone wishing to make a donation to the fund can do so at the Blast," said Chief Gavagnie.

For more information, please contact the Fire Department, 228-467-4736.

They're cute and they're cuddly. Unfortunately, they're also unwanted and unwanted. They are the residents of the Waveland Animal Shelter, and their numbers change all the time.

The only constant is that many, many more come in each week than make it out. According to totals from the month of May, the shelter took in 128 dogs and had to euthanize 105, for an 82 percent death rate. It's even worse for cats. In May, the shelter took in 222 cats, 211 of which — or 95 percent — were put down.

More dogs were euthanized in May than usual due to an outbreak of parvovirus, but the average monthly totals are still depressingly high simply because far more people drop animals off each month than adopt them.

-Bay St. Louis city officials are looking at more than just renourishing the sand beach along the waterfront -- they'd like to build a major marina and some additional parking as well. Mayor Eddie Favre said Friday the ideas are in "very, very preliminary" stages of pursuit. But, developing significant public recreational areas downtown including a 400-slip marina Bay St. Louis, and 150-slip marina in Waveland were proposed about a decade ago in the Hancock County Master Plan for beach renourishment.

June 21, 1984 - Water diversion plan includes Hancock recreational facility. Development of two local recreational facilities are included in a "freshwater diversion feasibility study report" currently being reviewed by the Mississippi River Commission in Vicksburg. The two-acre facilities would be located on the Jordan River in the Cedar Point area and at the mouth of the Wolf River. The feasibility study was initiated by resolution of the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Public Works and Transportation in 1976. The purpose of the study is to investigate the feasibility of introducing fresh water into the Lake Pontchartrain Basin and western Mississippi Sound to improve the habitat and fish and wildlife productivity.

Village People, the Trammmps, bring disco back to Casino Magic BSL

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Seventies disco icons, The Village People will perform two shows with The Trammmps July 3rd and 4th at 9 p.m. at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis.

If you think our fireworks are hot, wait until you see the "Disco Inferno" these two super-groups churn up as they crank out hits like: "YMCA," "Macho Man," "In the Navy," and of course, "Disco Inferno." Plus, many, many more! Tickets are available for $14.95, $19.95 and $24.95, at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

What do a cowboy, a construction worker, a Native American, a biker, a police officer and a G.I. have in common? Hits like "YMCA," "Macho Man," "Go West" and "In the Navy" of course! The Village People formed in the late 70's when producer/composer Jacques Morali found Felipe Rose dancing in his Indian costume in a crowd in New York's Greenwich Village. Rose's special visual attraction inspired the idea to put together a group of Village icons from various American social groups.

Soon after, Morali saw Victor Willis in Broadway's The Wiz and recruited him to portray the police officer. Willis brought along his friend, Alex Briley to play a G.I. With partner Henri Belolo, Morali held auditions for three more performers and The Village People released their first self-titled record in 1977. Willis was later replaced by Ray Simpson, and presently Jeff Olson plays the cowboy, David Hodo is the construction worker and Eric Anzalone completes the six as the biker.

After 27 years together, the Village People have sold more than 65 million recordings and been featured in a variety of magazines and television shows.

The Trammmps began their disco dreams in Philadelphia in 1972 and still tour today with four of the original members: Jimmy Ellis, Harold Wade, Stanley Wade, and John Hart. The group's best known song was "Disco Inferno" which was featured in the motion picture Saturday Night Fever and earned the group a Grammy Award in 1979. Other Trammmps songs to chart included: "Where Happy People Go," "The Night the Lights Went Out" and "I Feel Like I've Been Livin' (On the Dark Side of the Moon)."

Don't miss the Village People and The Trammmps at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis July 3rd & 4th! Must be 21 to attend.

DMR to enhance artificial reefs south of Horn Island

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Department of Marine Resources (DMR) in cooperation with the Mississippi Gulf Fishing Banks will begin enhancement of three artificial fishing reefs, July 6, weather permitting. The three permitted reef sites are located about 10 miles south of Horn Island at Fish Havens 1, 12 and 13.

The reefs will provide a hard bottom that will diversify habitat and, therefore, increase species diversity and richness. Matthews Marine in Gulfport is the contractor deploying the reef material, which consists of approximately five barge loads of concrete manholes. The manholes were donated from Hanson Pipe and Products Inc. in Gulfport. Gary Gollott of Gollott and Sons Transfer and Storage in Biloxi will help with the transport of the manholes. The estimated cost for the deployment of the concrete manholes is $50,000.

"These artificial reefs will enhance fishing opportunities for the fishermen of Mississippi," said DMR marine fisheries biologist, Kerwin Cuevas. "The material will provide exceptional habitat for reef fish such as red snapper and grouper."

The artificial reef enhancement projects are funded through the Tidelands Trust fund. The Tidelands Trust Fund Program consists of funds derived from the lease rentals of tidelands and submerged lands. Revenues are collected by the Office of Secretary of State, appropriated by the state legislature and administered by the Commission on Marine Resources. All tidelands projects are reviewed, evaluated and recommended annually by the Commission on Marine Resources.

Currently, Mississippi has 16 permitted artificial offshore fishing reefs encompassing approximately 16,000 acres of water bottoms. These reefs range in size from one acre to 10,000 acres. Some of the materials used for Mississippi's offshore reefs include concrete modules (26 feet by 12 feet by 9 feet), concrete rubble, steel hull vessels, barges, an oil rig crew quarters and oil rig jackets.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. Free boat and water safety classes scheduled for this July and August

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Department of Marine Resources' (DMR) Boat and Water Safety class schedule for July and August 2004 is now available. Classes are free and open to all ages.

Pre-registration is required. Class dates are subject to change.

In order to operate a motorboat or personal watercraft in Mississippi, those born after June 30, 1980, are required to successfully complete an approved boating safety course and to have a certificate of satisfactory completion in their possession while in operation of the motorboat.

In Mississippi, it is against the law for anyone 12 years old and under to operate a motorboat or personal watercraft unless they possess a certificate and are accompanied by a parent, guardian or other person who is at least 21 years of age.

Anyone riding or operating a personal watercraft in Mississippi waters must wear a U.S. Coast Guard approved type 1, 2, or 3 PFD.

The DMR Marine Patrol-sponsored courses have been designed to effectively introduce topics such as boat registration, navigation rules, trailering, first aid response and weather watch into a comprehensive one- or two-session class. The classes are taught locally with many convenient locations. To pre-register for a class or to bring a class into your school call the DMR Boat and Water Safety Bureau at (228) 435-1332 or (228) 432-2820.

In the DMR's Boat and Water Safety presentation program, students learn the history of boat and water safety, the duties of the DMR's Marine Patrol, what to expect in the certification course and why there is a need for it.

Topics covered include registration, safety equipment, negligent operation, who has the right of way, boating accidents, no wake zones, weather and navigational aids.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. Visit the DMR online at www.dmr.state.ms.us.

the Waveland Animal Shelter, promote responsible pet ownership, increase awareness and promote adoptions of unwanted and abandoned animals housed at the shelter. The ultimate goal, Hemsley says, is to "end euthanasia as a means of controlling pet overpopulation."

Today, the group is more than 180 members strong and has accomplished at least part of its original mission. Last year, the group applied for and received a $15,000 grant from PetSmart to purchase equipment for the spay and neuter clinic; and raised funds to build cabinets and counters and provide electricity and plumbing for the clinic, which opened last October. The group also received a grant to fund no-cost spays and neuters of companion animals for lower income families.

The group also works to fund educational programs, and FRIENDS representatives speak in the schools about responsible pet ownership.

Among the group's other accomplishments:

- It established the "Gumbo" fund to help nurse sick or injured animals at the shelter back to health.
- The FRIENDS sponsor the annual Paws on Parade and pet festival.
- Submits photos of shelter animals to local newspapers and on a community board at Wal-Mart.

• Hosts monthly off-site adoptions at the Waveland Kmart to help bring the animals into the community.

• Raised funds with its "Home for the Holidays" adoptions of up to 50 cats for that month.

- Paid for a phone line and bought a new computer at the shelter, as well as repairing the kennel gates.
- Maintains a shopping card at Kmart for the shelter staff to use for such incidentals as cat litter and laundry soap.

- Buys and supplies microchips used at the shelter and underwrites two-thirds of the total cost of microchipping adopted animals.

- Recently bought 14 new directional signs for the shelter to replace old ones.
- FRIENDS also continues to support the shelter and spay-neuter clinic financially, and works with other animal welfare groups in the state.

"My hope is that our organization can continue to help the animals in Hancock County," new FRIENDS President Carole Strohmetz said last week, "and by helping the animals, help the citizens of Hancock County lead improved lives."

"There's still a lot of work ahead of us."

Currently, the group is working to increase its membership, and is always looking for new avenues of fund raising.

To join the FRIENDS of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County or for more information, call 216-PETS.

Mayor's race in the South Pacific

Forty Years Ago
June 25, 1964 - Three blondes and two brunettes Betty Smith, Sue Walters, Cathy Miller, Ann Clark and Dennis Seusseneau will vie for the title of Miss Bay St. Louis at 8 p.m. Saturday, at Bay High auditorium. This is the fifty annual Jaycees sponsored pageant. Ray Butterfield of WLOX television will act as master of ceremonies, introducing judges, contestants and several entertainment bonuses.

-Stray dogs are plaguing Waveland, Mayor Garfield Ladner told the Town's Aldermen Tuesday night. Alderman Dominick Sonier echoed the mayor's complaint and said some of the bigger dogs were a real menace to children. The discussion led to a decision to strictly enforce the town's ordinance against stray

Forty Years Ago
June 1, 1964 - Mayor Garfield Ladner announced to the town's residents that he was re-elected Mayor of the Town of Waveland Saturday. Ladner led the mayoralty race with a total of 808 votes. His closest opponent, Wallace Bourgeois received 39 votes. The other candidates in the race, Mrs. Ben Georgi received 32 votes.

-The Town of Waveland purchased the Waveland Water Works from Norma Gex Perkins for $28,450.77. Effective today, the Waveland Water Works will not furnish water to the residents of the town. Mayor Garfield Ladner said, "This will serve as an added revenue to the Town of Waveland. Also the water system has been in bad shape in the past. We feel by buying the water works we will be able to give better service."

Sixty Years Ago
June 16, 1942 - Mr. Cedric Heilmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heilmann, writes that even though on New Britain Island, on the other side of world, he found his favorite food - Fried Mullet. "They are the same as those at home and taste just as good. Getting something like this, really makes you feel at home."

-St. Stanislaus Summer Camp for boys opened Sunday, June 11 and will run until July 18. Approximately 250 boys between the ages of 8 to 15 have registered from Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina with one or two boys from other states.

-To enjoy a bath and to gain the benefits thereby it is not necessary to go regardless of clothing. This applies to a certain number of our people and more so to visitors. It is the same old story every bathing season, and it is time this relation of modesty be stepped without the aid of our civil authorities.

Diamondhead Water & Sewer District

Annual Drinking Water Quality Report

for the year of 2003

Issued June 27, 2004

We are pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform and explain to you about the outstanding water and service we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our resources.

Your water comes to you from deep, clean, clear water wells nearly 1000 feet deep in the Graham Ferry Formation of the Miocene Aquifer. This water is naturally crystal clear and of Artesian spring water quality.

We are pleased to report that our drinking water is clean and safe, and meets all federal and state requirements. This report shows our water quality and what it means.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact our main office at 255-5813. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled board meetings. They are held at 9am on the second Monday of each month at our main office on Park Ten Drive.

The Diamondhead Water & Sewer District routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The following table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st 2003 to December 31st, 2003. As water travels over the land or underground, it can pick up substances or contaminants such as microbes, inorganic and organic chemicals and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Non-Detects (ND) - laboratory analysis indicates that the constituent is not present.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter (µg/l) - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) or Nanograms per liter (ng/l) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) or Picograms per liter (pg/l) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - million fibers per liter is a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level - The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - The "Goal" (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Volatile Organic Contaminants
17. VOC's detected	N
Synthetic Organic Contaminants including Pesticides and Herbicides
18. SOC's detected	N

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels.

MCL's are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. These substances can be microbes, inorganic or organic chemicals and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

In our continuing efforts to maintain a safe and dependable water supply it may be necessary to make improvements in your water system. The costs of these improvements may be reflected in the rate structure. Rate adjustments may be necessary in order to address these improvements.

Thank you for allowing us to continue providing your family with clean, quality water this year. In order to maintain a safe and dependable water supply we sometimes need to make improvements that will benefit all of our customers. These improvements are sometimes reflected as rate structure adjustments. Thank you for understanding.

Please call our office at 255-5813 if you have any questions. We at the Diamondhead Water & Sewer District work around the clock to provide top quality water to every tap. We ask that all our customers help us protect our water sources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life and our children's future.
